Your SEEK Story Framework

Use this section to build the narrative context for a learning project. SEEK grounds your learner in meaning before asking for effort.

The Story Foundation

16. What is the name of your learning project — course, program, training, coaching relationship, or curriculum?

CIT-110

17. Who is the central character of this story? (The learner themselves, a fictional user, a professional persona, etc.)

Icy a super intelligence superhuman created to obey

18. What challenge or problem does this character face at the beginning? Be specific and vivid.

trying to figure out his own emotions and discover freewill

19. What does the world look like once this character has successfully completed the learning journey?

the world looks like it is at peace with the character finding out about his past

The Narrative Arc

20. Write a 2-3 sentence story opener you could use to begin your course, session, program, or module. Make it personal and specific.

After a distance planet sent out an SOS signal, Icy and his team went to make a recovery mission. During his expedition he would learn about his past, and how he's actions and emotions affect himself and his teammates.

21. How will you weave this story throughout the material? Describe 2-3 places where the narrative will resurface.

when they are leaving their planet and then when find survivors
